We are doing our best to make sure that all children, youth, their families and our staff are safe and stay healthy during this difficult times of COVID -19.

To ensure this, we have been closely following the advice of the World Health Organisation, and Indian government. We have issued relevant advisories and our emergency teams are active and on alert in each location. In addition, we are taking precautionary measures as well. For the past two months visits by outsiders to our various campuses have been suspended till further orders. Our youth who are studying in colleges and universities in various cities have also been brought back to SOS homes. We have ensured to minimize the risks to the least levels by restricting movements and outdoor activities of children completely.

Our Emergency and Disaster Preparedness Teams are active and have put in place an action plan for ensuring high levels of cleaning and hygiene awareness, vis a vis measures to disinfectifying areas, where possible. To ensure children and youth are engaged with meaningful activities, online learning platforms or home-based schools are also in place. We are connected with one another over phone calls, the senior team meets (online) every day in the morning to take stocks of the situation for each location.

We Pankaj Buckshey team personally appeal to you to kindly help us in reaching out to your associates, friends and clients – in any way possible to help continue keeping our children safe and healthy. As the situation evolves, the donation we receive will transit to support longer-term recovery and education efforts in affected regions.
