HAPPY NINGS

November 2023

SOS Children's Villages India, India's largest self-implementing childcare NGO was established in 1964 aiming to break the cycle of child neglect, abuse and abandonment. We provide curative and preventive services to vulnerable children without parental care or are at the risk of losing it via a value chain of quality care services that go beyond childcare alone, ensuring comprehensive child development.

Remarkable journey toward success

Shalini Kumari and her elder sister came to SOS Children's Village Rajpura at a very tender age. Shalini was a good student. She scored 61% in class 12 and enrolled to the B.Sc. programme in Hospitality and Hotel Management with Ambala Institute of Hotel Management.

Her hard work and dedication paid off when she was selected as a resource for an online baking workshop. She landed her first job at ITC Fortune Group Dalhousie, Himachal Pradesh, and is currently working with Welcome Hotel by ITC Hotel/Bella Vista in Panchkula.

Shalini is a Culture Champion, having received the certificate of recognition for her outstanding work in the first quarter of 2023. This is not the first time she has achieved this recognition; she was also named Culture Champion in the last quarter of 2022.

From housewife to successful entrepreneur

Chaya, a housewife struggling to make ends meet, was welcomed to the Family Strengthening Programme, after which she joined the Self-Help Group 'Sankalp Mahila Bachatgat'. She started saving monthly. After receiving the right financial guidance from the Self-Help Group, she started saving monthly and was a regular at capacity building sessions, which prompted her to start her own business. She received income generation support to start a boutique. Her talent for design got her many orders, and with the help of her husband, she merged her businesses and invested in buffalo rearing.

Chaya then associated with the Mann Deshi Foundation, learnt how to mass produce papads and through a subsidy, invested in a papad-making machine. Through her various initiatives, her dream remains to educate her children and give wings to their ambitions.
